Blood Alcohol Content (BAC) Calculator

Below is a video on how to use the BAC Calculator above.

The BAC calculator provides an approximate estimation of an individual's Blood Alcohol Content.

BAC varies based on sex, age, body size, body type, and a whole range of other things.

Some factors that affect your BAC (Blood Alcohol Content)

- The amount of alcohol a person consumes
- The speed at which a person consumes alcohol
- A person's gender
- A person's weight
- A person's fat/muscle content
- A person's metabolism

This calculator from Drinkdriving.org is only to be used as a guide. If you want to know your BAC accurately, use a personal alcohol tester or find a law enforcement officer and ask he or she to breath test you.
